Hello Janette,

MPC's initial naming convention is as follows, showing one name per well pair:

1	Zachary 1
2	Zachary 2
3	Samuel 1
4	Samuel 2
5	Zoe 1
6	Zoe 2
7	Starla Dawn 1
8	Starla Dawn 2

I have attached, for your reference, this naming convention alongside the staked locations for the above referenced wells.

As always, thank-you. 970 590 3944.

Sincerely,

Ted Pagano

Ted – Here's an easy question – Are you planning on giving your wells names, or just numbers, 1-8 to start? I'm entering them into our tracking database, and it is much easier if our naming system matches yours.

Janette,

Thank-you kindly for the response. For this particular Class III application, we have decided to not include their unit, rendering that uncertainty inapplicable.

See attached.

Ted,

I don't have a need to meet face-to-face right now. What I like to do is ask questions by email or phone as they come up, and not wait to accumulate a meeting's worth of questions. Allan has had a little more time to review your application, and his needs could be different from mine.

One thing that has come to my mind is not relevant to our permitting process per se, but could hold up things if an issue arises – that is, the question of Mineral Rights. I assume that Michigan Potash has everything settled with Cargill if you will be directionally drilling under their property to mine the Potash intervals. Again, Mineral Rights are not an EPA issue, just something that could come up during public notification of draft permits.

Thank you,

Janette Hansen

Hello Janette,

I hope that you are finding that the Class III MPO application is intelligible and straight forward, answering most of your questions upfront.

It is my goal to ensure that a lack of communication or your need for additional information is never a cause for delay, caused by me.

I would like to schedule a meeting with your team in Chicago if possible, so that I may be directly available at your discretion. Maybe there is a time that works for you and Allan.

Please, if there is anything I can do to facilitate your review and understanding of the application, please enable me to do so.

Thank-you kindly.

Sincerely,

Ted Pagano
